PAPER PETALS

Sample Social Media Campaign

A one-week Instagram content plan

A self-initiated project exploring social media content planning, visual presentation, captions, and audience engagement for a fictional stationery brand.

Brand style: Pastel · Soft · Study-inspired

Prepared by: Divyanshi Bhandari

Portfolio project — not a client campaign.

1. Campaign Overview

About the brand

Paper Petals is a fictional stationery brand created for this sample social media campaign. Its visual identity uses soft pastel colours and a calm, study-inspired aesthetic.

Target audience

Students and stationery enthusiasts who enjoy organising their study spaces, using planners, and discovering aesthetically pleasing stationery.

Campaign objective

The aim of this one-week Instagram campaign is to introduce the brand, showcase stationery products, and encourage audience interaction through simple, relatable content.

Content approach

The campaign uses three static Instagram posts:

- Monday: Meet Paper Petals — introduce the brand and its visual identity.
- Wednesday: Your Study Desk Essentials — showcase stationery products and invite people to share their favourites.
- Friday: Plan Your Week With Me — connect stationery with weekly planning and encourage saves.

Visual style: Pastel colours, soft imagery, simple typography, and a consistent brand identity.

2. Campaign Post Designs

The campaign includes three static Instagram posts designed to introduce the Paper Petals brand, showcase stationery products, and encourage audience interaction. Each post follows the brand's pastel visual style.

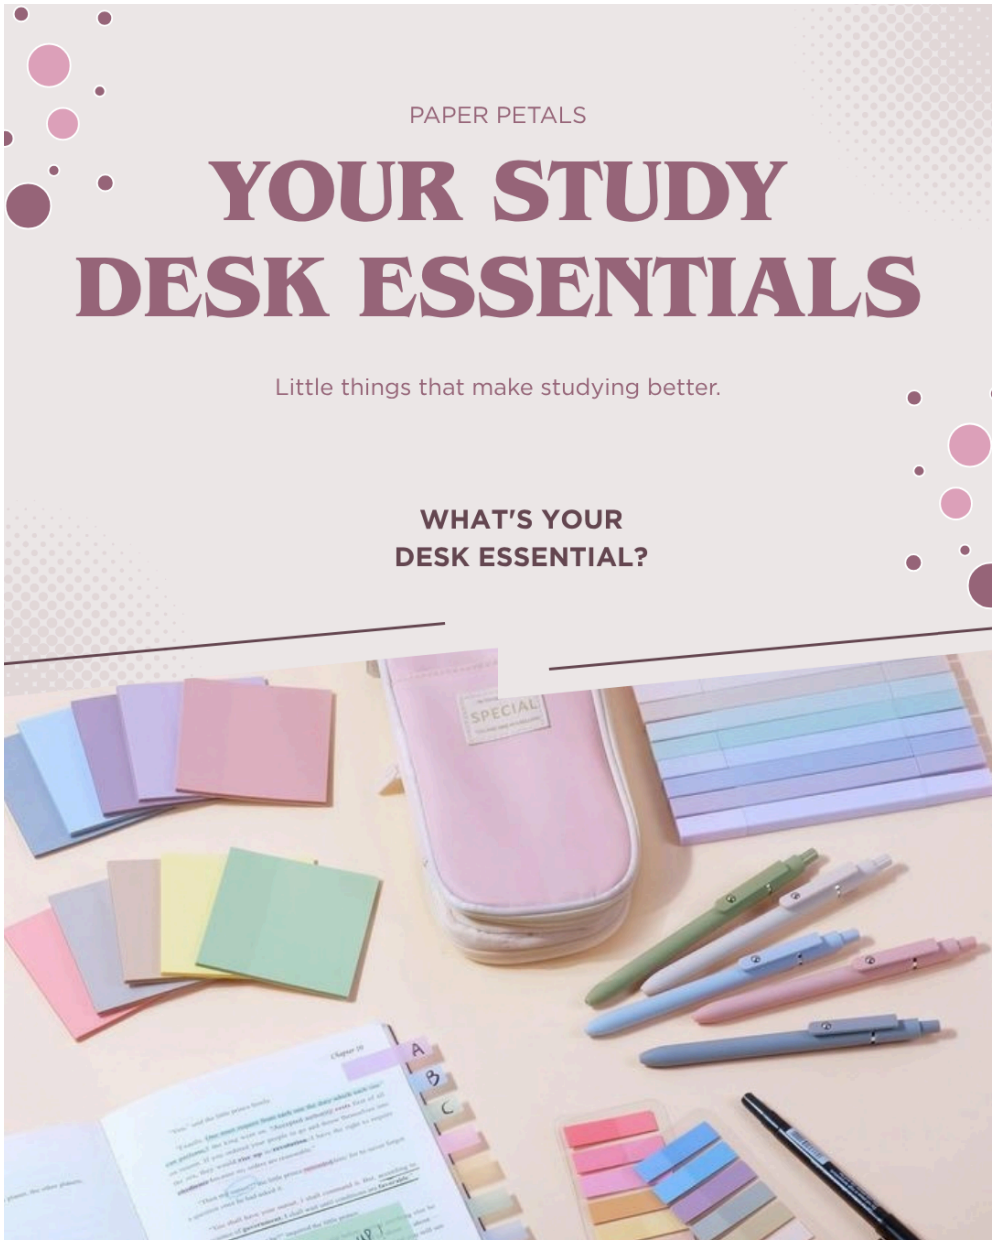

Post 1: Meet Paper Petals

Purpose: Introduce the fictional brand and establish its pastel, study-inspired visual identity.

Caption: Some days call for a fresh page, your favourite pens, and a little colour. 🌷 Welcome to Paper Petals, your little corner for stationery and everyday inspiration.

Call to action: Follow for stationery inspiration.

Post 2: Your Study Desk Essentials

Purpose: Showcase stationery products and encourage the audience to share their favourites.

Caption: A tidy desk, colourful notes, and pens you love can make study time feel a little better. 💗 What's your desk essential: notebooks, pens, or sticky notes? Tell us below!

Call to action: Comment with your favourite stationery item.

Post 3: Plan Your Week With Me

Purpose: Connect stationery with weekly planning and encourage saves.

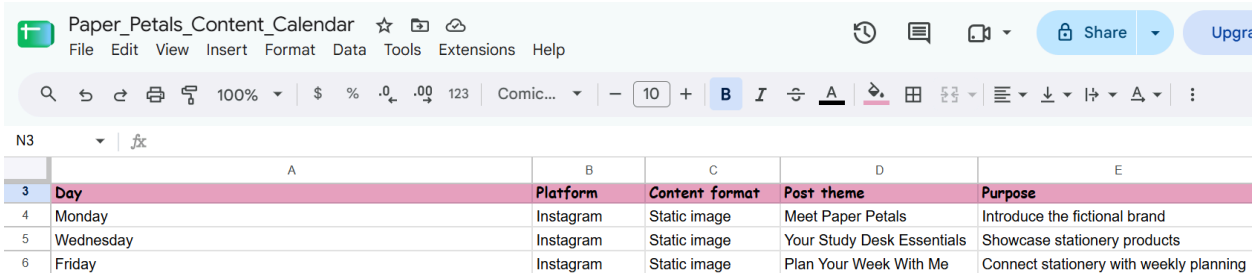

Caption: New week, fresh plans, one step at a time. ✨ Take a few minutes to organise your priorities and make space for what matters. Save this post as a reminder for your next weekly reset! #PaperPetals #WeeklyPlanning #StudyMotivation

Call to action: Save for your next weekly reset.

3. Content Calendar and Scheduling

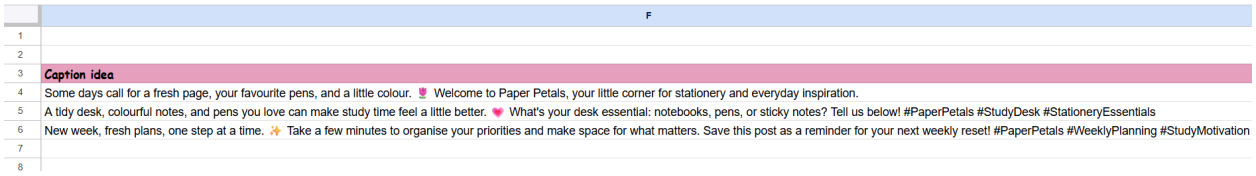

A one-week content calendar was created to organise the campaign's posting schedule. It includes the platform, content format, post theme, purpose, caption idea, call to action, status, and metrics to track.

The three posts were planned for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Each post has a specific purpose, from introducing the brand to encouraging audience interaction and saves.

4. Engagement and Performance Tracking

The campaign identifies the following metrics to monitor:

- Reach: The number of unique accounts that see a post.
- Likes and comments: Indicators of audience interaction.
- Profile visits: An indication of interest in the brand.
- Saves: A useful metric for content such as weekly planners that people may want to revisit.

As this is a sample campaign for a fictional brand, no actual performance results are claimed. These metrics represent the measures that could be reviewed if the posts were published.

5. Project Summary

This self-initiated project gave me an opportunity to practise planning social media content, creating simple Canva posts, writing captions, selecting calls to action, and organising a content calendar for a fictional stationery brand.

It also helped me understand how different posts can serve different purposes, such as introducing a brand, encouraging comments, and creating content people may want to save.
